

Twitter Thread by Ivor Cummins

Ivor Cummins

@FatEmperor

Thread on Scotland mortality reality, with lessons for the world.

Just got emailed the data:

"National Records of Scotland have just released all cause death statistics for January 2021: 6,429 deaths. This is somewhat above the average of the preceding 5 years."

1/x

"However, the figure for 2018 stands at 7,552. We tried to point out last year that, though the spike in excess deaths in April was real and alarming, it essentially amounted to a bad flu season landing at the wrong time of year.

2/x