Did the Prophet Mulammad follow an Arabian religion or religiosity before Islam, that is, before what Muslim accounts label the "Call to Prophecy"? A short thread based on notes for an article preparation 1/

Biographical information about the life of Mu ammad before the Call to Prophecy is seriously lacking - even in the literary imaginations of later Muslim sources. But there are useful and relevant starting points which, if read critically, can add to our existing knowledge 2/

The best clue is found in the famous accounts recorded in the Sarat Rasal Allah (Biography of the Messenger of God) by the famous biographer Ibn Isalaq (d. 767) - translated with additional notes (from Ibn Hisham; died 883) by Alfred Guillaume 3/

Ibn Is q (in Ibn Hish m's recension) informs the reader that before the Call to Prophecy, Mu ammad used to sojourn (on Mount for a period of 30 days every year. During his meditative seclusion, Mu ammad would feed the poor & needy when they called on him 4/

مولى آل الزُبير. قال: سمعت عبدالله بن الزُبير وهو يقول لعُبَيد بن عمير بن قَتَادة الليثي: حدِّثنا يا عُبيد، كيف كان بدء ما ابتُديء به رسول الله عليه النبوّة، حين جاءه جبريل عليه السلام؟ قال: فقال عُبيد _ وأنا حاضر يُحدِّث عبدالله بن الزبير، ومَن عنده من الناس: كان رسول الله _ عليه _ يجاور في حِرَاء من كل سنة شهراً، وكان ذلك مما تَحنَّث به قريش في الجاهلية. والتحنث: التَبرُّر(١).

The operative word in Ibn Hish m's biography is ta annuth (). The term remains contentious both among medieval Muslim authorities and Western Islamicists. I decided to prepare an article on the term and its links to Late Antique religiosities largely because...5/

...nothing of profound detail has been written on the topic since Meir Jacob Kister 1968 article (which is the basis of my proposed piece). Before I summarise the views of Muslim and Western accounts, it's worth recalling the series of events in Ibn Hish \blacksquare m 6/

First, Mulammad used to climb the Mt. It is to sit in contemplative solitude in the famous cave. Two, the seclusion would last 30 days. In some medieval Arabic accounts the seclusion would include sexual abstinence; in others, Mulammad was accompanied by his wife Khildiji 7/

That Mu∎ammad practiced nightly mediations alone in ■ir■■ before the Call to Prophecy, is recorded in Bukh∎r■ (with the isn■d including al-Zuhr■ -- ■Urwa b. Z -- ■■■isha), as evidenced by the textual mention of Mu∎ammad returning to his wife after the end of his seclusion 8/

قال نا محمدُ بن عبدالعزيز بن أبي رِزْمةَ قال أنا أبوصالح سلموية قال حدثني عبدُالله عن يونس بن يزيد قال نا محمدُ بن عبدالعزيز بن أبي رِزْمةَ قال أنا أبوصالح سلموية قال حدثني عبدُالله عن يونس بن يزيد قال أخبرني ابنُ شهاب أنَّ عروة بن الزبير أخبره أن عائشةَ قالتْ: كان أولُ ما بُدئ به رسولُ الله صلى الله عليه الرؤيا الصاحقة في النوم، فكان لا يرى رؤيا إلا جاءت مثلَ فلقِ الصبح، ثم حُبب إليه الخلاء فكان يلحقُ بغار حراء فيتحنَّتُ فيه -قال: والتحنثُ: التعبد الليالي ذوات العدد - قبل أن يرجع إلى أهله، ويتزود لذلك ، ثم يرجع إلى خديجة ، فيتزود لمثلها ، حتى فجئهُ الحقُّ وهو في غار حراء ، فجاله الملك فقال: اقرأ. فقال رسولُ الله صلى الله عليه: «ما أنا بقارئ». قال: «فأخذني فغطني عتى بلغ مني الجهد ، الجهد ، ثم أرسلني فقال: اقرأ. قلت: ما أنا بقارئ ». قال: «فأخذني فغطني الثانية حتى بلغ مني الجهد ، ثم أرسلني فقال: اقرأ. قلت: ما أنا بقارئ . فأخذني فغطني الثالثة حتى بلغ مني الجهد ، ثم أرسلني فقال: اقرأ. قلت : ما أنا بقارئ . فأخذني فغطني الثالثة حتى بلغ مني الجهد ، ثم أرسلني فقال: اقرأ . قلت : ما أنا بقارئ . فأخذني فغطني الثالثة حتى بلغ مني الجهد ، ثم أرسلني فقال: اقرأ . قلت : ما أنا بقارئ . فأخذني فغطني الثالثة حتى بلغ مني الجهد ، ثم أرسلني فقال: اقرأ . قلت : ما أنا بقارئ . فأخذني فغطني الثالثة حتى بلغ مني الجهد ، ثم أرسلني

Third, Mulammad would give food the needy and poor - presumably in the area of lire. Fourth, at the end of the meditative seclusion, Mulammad would go to the Kalbah (approx. 4 km away) and circumambulate (i.e., go around) seven times, or more. 9/

Fifth, in some accounts (e.g., Bukh r) Mulammad prepared for the monthly seclusion by taking with him provisions (food and water) to the Cave of r.Sixth, sometimes Mulammad would break his seclusion to go back to Mecca to stock up on provisions 10/

I am keen to investigate the origin of the word ta annuth and the ethical-spiritual rituals associated with them, and to place these practices in context of Late Antique religion and philosophy 11/

But since I am still at the nascent stages of my research, let's summarise the main views and perspectives neatly listed in Kister's introductory study (around fourteen pages) 12/

Muslim philologists, lexicographers, and ■ad■th folk were divided on the original meaning of ta■annuth. The common explanation given to ta■annuth is "to remove sin (■■■) from oneself" - the definition given by al-R■ghib al-I■fah■n■ (d. 1109) in his al-Mufrad■t 13/

فى يَمِينهِ إذا لم يَف بها وُعَبِّرَ بالحِنْثِ عن الْبُلُوغِ
لَا كَانَ الإِنْسَانُ عِنْدَهُ مُبُوْخَذُ بَمَا يرْ نَكِيهُ
خِلافًا لِمَا كَان قَبْلهُ فَقِيلَ بَاغِ فَلَانَ الْحِنْثَ الْحِنْثَ الْحَنْثَ الْحَنْثُ عَو الْمُتَحَرِّجِ
وَالْمَتِحَنِّثُ النَّافِضُ عَن نَفْسِهِ الْحِنْثُ نَحُو الْمُتَحَرِّجِ
وَالْمَتَانَّمُ .

For al-Qasallana (d. 1517), commenting on Bukhara, the term talannuth is equated with talabbud: devotional rituals that include seclusion (last) and watching of the Kalbah (last). Similarly, Al-Suyalla finds parallels between talannuth & seclusion (last) 14/

The earliest biography of Mullammad, Ibn Island, however, uses neither tallabbud nor tallannuth, but tanassuk, that is, verb of lamb from which mansik (ritual place) comes. Early Sufis were known as nusslak (renunciationists) 15/

شماله فلا يرى إلا الشجر وما حوله من الحجارة وهي تحييه بتحية النبوة: السلام عليك، رسول الله، فكان رسول الله على يخرج إلى حراء في كل عام شهراً من السنة ينسك فيه، وكان من نسك في الجاهلية من قريش يطعم من جاءه من المساكين، حتى إذا انصرف من مجاورته وقضاه لم يدخل بيته حتى يطوف بالكعبة حتى إذا كان الشهر الآخر الذي أراد الله عز وجل ما أراد من كرامته

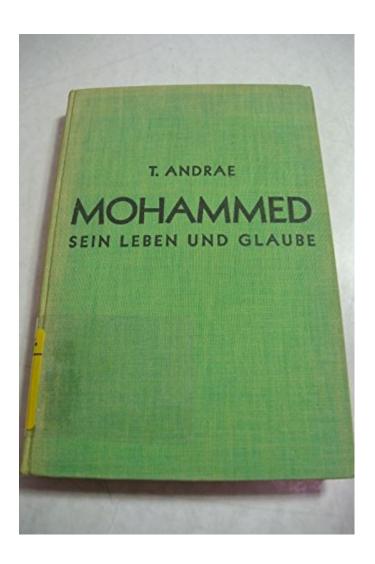

So for Muslims the term talannuth came to be associated with related terms of devotionalisms like talabbud, tanassuk, and sometimes tabarrur (from). But by far the most interesting gloss is that of Ibn Hish who read talannuth as (

For Ibn Hish m ta annuth is a corruption of ta annuf, the latter being a form derived from and, the Quran-mentioned Abrahamic monotheism practiced by some Arabs before Islam, suggesting that Mu ammad did not slide into paganism before Islam 17/

Modern orientalists are divided too, with the jury still out on the origin of the term talannuth. The Austrian orientalist Aloys Sprenger took an odd view, arguing that talannuth was not an ancient Arabian practice and was incompatible with the spirit of Jahiliyyah 18/

Tor Andrae connects talannuth to devotional rituals in Syrian Christianity, though without providing detailed examples 19/

Hartwig Hirschfeld links talannuth to Jewish devotionalism, claiming that the Arabic talannuth is based on the Hebrew tellinnoth learnt the practice from Jews 20/

The key takeaway and follow up questions is, when the medieval accounts inform us that Mulammad's practice of meditative seclusion before the Call to Prophecy was part of the devotional religiosities of Quraysh before Islam, should we, then... 21/

...revise our views on the starting point of Islam? Surely Mullammad's meditative devotional rituals predisposed him to receive the revelation (as the Muslim sources affirm). If that is the case, did Mullammad find (partial) efficacy in the Arabian ethical-devotional rituals? 22/

And should we consider rituals of talanuth (assuming Hirschfeld is wrong, as Goitein did) to belong to a pre-Islamic semitic form of ethical and spiritual devotionalism? We will have to wait to find out. END.
